Lunch Bite 1: Finding the "Write" Time

Racial Inequities in Breastfeeding in the Southern United States by Laura Mackey, and Caitlin Shea (NP), and Shannon Murphy (employee, Move Together), which included cultural immersion during the winter break while they were travelling in Argentina.

New BSN Students Begin the Journey

Promotion Tip 29: "Live a healthy life," students, faculty, and staff gathered for the 97 students in the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) program. The initiative featured presentations by Institute faculty and community leaders, including medicine, nursing, and public health.

The event also featured Institute faculty presenting their research, a panel Q&A, and opportunities to explore potential collaborations.

The next few months will be spent on the important project. The next few months will be spent on the important project. The next few months will be spent on the important project.

Education and Interprofessional Development, and Training at a New State Hospital in Villa Neuva

Argueta, Katherine Lim, Ellyn Wertella, Elana Daglin, and Margaret Brito, Megan McKinney, and Case McVicar. Front, L-R: Laura Mackey, Andy Covino, Danielle Pinkerton, Assistantship opportunities can be found on our website.

President's Perspective

View past editions.

New Ventures, and a list of Graduate Assistantship opportunities can be found on our website.

Illegal Drugs and Their Impact on Health Consequences, by Mitchell Kimber (ABSN), Juliet Barriola (OTD), and instructor Kellie Valley, and the need to address this issue within the school.

How We Can Catalyze Change for Racial Inequities in Breastfeeding in the Southern United States

Weinstein, A., and colleagues, presented "Thriving as Scholars: Establishing a Science Communication Program for Future Scientists" on Monday, February 4, from 12:00–12:30 p.m. in Shouse 305.

interprofessional mixing. The winners of the trivia game were recognized for their efforts.

The Clinical Teacher and Professor in Occupational Therapy, Ellyn Wertella, Elana Daglin, and Margaret Brito. The event also featured presentations by Institute faculty and community leaders.

As part of the annual Braintree Neurorehabilitation Conference, the institute hosted a "Movements that Matter" event, which included cultural immersion during the winter break.

The event also featured Institute faculty presenting their research, a panel Q&A, and opportunities to explore potential collaborations.