Assistantship opportunities can be promoted to the MGH Institute faculty who have not already shared materials with students and colleagues. All regular and adjunct faculty are encouraged to participate.

Teaching Survey Deadline: Noon–1:00 p.m. in Shouse 305B.

Several faculty and staff from the School of Nursing have received recognition for their efforts. Students and colleagues have been invited to view the video on the Kawa Model of Care presented by the Dean. The video is available on the School's website.

Partners in Excellence Awards: These awards recognize outstanding contributors to the School's mission. Students and colleagues are encouraged to nominate candidates.

New Nursing Videos Premiere: Two new videos for the School of Nursing have been released to promote pronoun-inclusive intake forms. The week of LGBTQ+ Health Awareness Week included a talk by a representative from the community, as well as Pronoun Awareness Day.

LGBTQ+ Health Awareness Week: The week began with a talk given by a representative from the community. The week concluded with a full week of events focusing on LGBTQ+ health issues. The School of Nursing was the lead story of the current edition of the New England Journal of Medicine. Read more about student global experiences in the Summer 2019 issue.

Policy Summit: The deans and students met with senators and congressional representatives over spring break to lobby for the Physician Assistant Act (HR1686). They advocated for school-based sexual education and reproductive health care policy.

Service Loan Forgiveness Program: As I read the news report on the proposed changes to student aid and the student loan service loan forgiveness program, I realized the importance of staying informed about proposed changes to educational budgets.

Don't Get Sick After June: American Indian Heritage Month: Joseph Kennedy III, Katherine Clarke, and Stephen Doucette lobbied for the Physician Assistant Act (HR1686) in Southern California, lobbied for the Physician Assistant Act (HR1686), and advocated for school-based sexual education and reproductive health care policy.

United States Senate: The deans and students met with senators and congressional representatives over spring break to lobby for the Physician Assistant Act (HR1686). They advocated for school-based sexual education and reproductive health care policy.